Man Held on Serious Charge

CLEVELAND CONFIDENT OF TAKING SIXTH BASE BALL GAME

Little Girls Identify Man Under Arrest

Harry Pope, aged 37, a colored rag picker of this city, is being held in jail on a serious charge preferred by the mother of a little seven year old girl, whom, it is alleged, he attacked after he had enticed her into the cellar of his home. The prisoner stoutly denied his guilt but two little girls who were brought to the police station identified him as the man who had attempted to entice them into the building.

It is alleged that the prisoner attempted to entice the girls into the cellar on various occasions and in one or two instances had been successful. One little girl told that he had promised to take her to see the aeroplane and when this ruse failed, he wanted to give her a nickel if she would come into the cellar to fix his collar. She became frightened and ran to her home and reported the affair. A physician who was attending one of the little girls reported his case and the arrest followed when the little six year old girl confessed.

She stated that the fiend had accomplished his purpose after offering her money and presents and afterwards displaying a huge knife with which he threatened her bodily harm if she told of what had happened. He will be given a preliminary hearing before a local Justice of the Peace and will probably be held for court.

Edward Frantz Buys Interest in Local Store

Edward Frantz, of Monongahela, a brother of the late William Frantz, has purchased a half interest in the Frantz Clothing store and assumed active management of the business this morning. Mr. Frantz has spent twenty five years of his life in the clothing business and for a number of years was a member of the firm of Frantz and Teschke of Monongahela. He sold his interest in the Monongahela store before coming to Monessen and will devote his entire energies to the local enterprise.

The Frantz clothing store is the largest and probably the most flourishing in the upper Monongahela valley and compares favorably with enterprises of its kind in larger places. It was established about sixteen years ago by Messrs Frantz and Boyd, both of whom died within a few months of each other.

The firm name will be Frantz and Frantz. The store will continue in the future as in the past, to provide the best service possible, always handling the best line of clothing at the most moderate prices. The new member of the firm is the same type of man as his late brother, pleasant, congenial and affable, possessing a personality that will succeed anywhere. He expects to move his family to Monessen as soon as suitable quarters can be obtained and to identify himself with the community in every practical way.

Auto Accident

Harry Rosenberg of McKeesport, son of David Rosenberg, a McKeesport councilmman, came to grief yesterday afternoon while speeding down the Webster-Monessen road, when the Packard car which he was driving, sideswiped a truck and the touring car was rolled into the ditch. Al Itzlsoitz and Sam Rosen of this city, were in the car with Rosenberg at the time of the accident, but fortunately all of the occupants escaped without serious injury. The car was slightly damaged.

NOTICE TO MERCHANTS

It is requested by the Board of Trade that all places of business in Monessen close Tuesday afternoon in order that all may take part in the Columbus Day celebration.

Cleveland Fans Jubilant Over Result of Ball Game

By HENRY FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Cleveland, Oct. 11.—Cleveland and its environs was still trying to recover from a shock today.

Not a shock because the Indians forged ahead in the race, for the flag by beating the Brooklyn Robins, 8 to 1, but a shock and series of jolts occasioned by the accomplishments of all kinds of impossibles.

Yesterday's game not only sent 27,000 Cleveland fans home with the sweet taste of victory back of their teeth, but it thrilled them with the realization that they sat in one of the grandest games of baseball that has ever been staged.

Records and more records went into the discard. There was a series of "first time happenings," that shocked the wild throng almost into a trance.

As a result of that one game—a marvel-three Cleveland Indians were catapulted into baseball's Hall of fame. The trio were cited for the "Croix de Baseball" and all other diamond decorations.

The list of those who distinguished themselves by gallantry in the face of the enemy and unparalleled feats on the field includes:

Elmer Smith, age 28, home, Milan, Ohio. He smashed a home-run in the first inning with the bases full—the first time in world's series history. He tripled in the third inning and singled in the fifth. He didn't do a thing in the field because Bagby wouldn't wouldn't let them hit out there.

William Wambsganss, aged 26, is a native Clevelander. He pulled an unassisted triple play in the fifth inning—the first in world's series history and the second in modern major league records.

James C. Bagby, aged 31, home, the wilds of Taliaferian county, Georgia. He knocked a homer with two men on in the fourth inning after O'Neil had been passed purposely to give Brooklyn an easy out. It was the first homer by a pitcher in a world's series.

The Indian infield—Doc Johnston Wamby, Sewell and Gardner—who completed two thrilling double plays in a pinch and one triple out.

The Indian outfield—Jamieson, Speaker and Smith who played sparkling ball and hit six times for 11 bases.

The whole team—for baseball unequalled before in world's series history.

Cleveland won yesterday—and stands to win the series—on vicious hitting and spectacular fielding.

Brooklyn outhit the Indians so far as the total of safe drives is concerned. In every inning except one the Robins crowded the bases. But when they threatened the Indian defense tightened and cut the throat of rallies with sparkling outs, double plays, even a triple kill.

The sixth game of the series today promised to draw another capacity crowd to the park.

Early this morning the streets were crowded with the same buzzing, gossiping gang of Ohioans that is keeping up the reputation of the world series.

Early morning talk, as usual, confined itself to gossip about the probable pitcher.

Brooklyn's choice is less certain. Uncle Robby will debate several minutes before he selects the pitcher to make the Robins last stand. It will be the last stand because Cleveland is sure of another victory.

MANY ATTRACTIONS FEATURE PROGRAM IN MONESSEN COLUMBUS DAY CELEBRATION

The business of Monessen will practically be suspended tomorrow on account of the Columbus Day celebration. A request was issued this morning by the Board of Trade through the merchants committee urging upon all business people to, insofar as possible, suspend during the afternoon and participate in the celebration to whatever extent is necessary to make the affair a success.

The committee has worked hard and while sufficient money has been subscribed to provide good attractions the actual work has been left to a very few. The city is beginning to present an attractive appearance since the streets and business houses are being decorated and there is every indication that the program all the way through will far exceed expectations. The music will be a feature, while the parade will be spectacular, and, headed by mounted police, city officials and delegations of fraternal societies, the numbers will really be surprising.

Word has been received from out of town delegations that the number that will be in line will exceed first expectations. John J. Cushing, the chief marshal, has his work properly outlined and if the aids report to him at the time and place specified in the program the parade will move sharply at the hour appointed.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

This will be the first time Monessen has observed Columbus Day. The memory of the great explorer that gave to the world the land of promise, has not been observed as commendably as some of those who led the way for a new civilization, but from here forth, Columbus Day promises to become of greater national importance with a more general degree of observance as the years pass. Other cities and towns have for years been observing Columbus Day with some form of appropriate exercises and festivities, but in this immediate section Independence Day has outrivalled all others for open and general expression of gratitude for American Liberty.

Fair weather is all that will be necessary tomorrow to make Monessen's Columbus Day celebration the greatest event of the kind in the valley as final arrangements were completed yesterday for the monster affair that promises to attract thousands from all parts of the valley. J. J. Cushing has been appointed chief marshal of the parade, and with competent aids will handle the big parade in first class manner. The various divisions will form as follows:

The Parade will be headed by the Monessen Mounted Police under command of Chief Coon.

First Division

Tancille's Band.

Monessen Italian Citizens Band.

Monessen Italian societies and citizens.

The line of march will be as follows:—Donner avenue to Oneida, Oneida to Schoonmaker, Schoonmaker to Twelfth, Twelfth to Donner, Donner to Page (Electric) park, where the marchers will disband.

Busy Police Court

Lewis Depano of Newell, followed his wife to this city Saturday night and attempted to compel her to return home. During the argument the police arrived and placed both under arrest. Forfeits of $25.00 each were posted for a hearing this morning, but only Depano attended. He was fined $5.00 and costs and his wife's money was declared forfeited.

Robert Leonard enjoying the Indian summer and wearing a panama hat was found lying in an alley between Schoonmaker and Donner Saturday night. He plead guilty to a charge of being drunk at the hearing this morning and was fined $2.00 and costs. Having no money he will spend the next four days in jail.

Jenny Fields, a sixteen year old girl, was found emerging from an alley at the midnight hour with George Waller, aged about 40. They were picked up on a charge of disorderly conduct and given a hearing this morning. The man was fined $15.00 and costs, while the young girl was let off on payment of the costs, but warned that a second offense would mean a trip to Morganza.

Tech Freshmen Given Scare By High School

In one of the best and hardest fought games ever seen on the local field, Monessen High school went down to defeat before the heavy Tech Plebes, by the score of 14-0. Monessen had two chances to score in the first half. In the first quarter Anderson received a long forward pass from Hanlon on Tech's two yard, but just as the ball hit in his arms his shoe came off and he stumbled forward over the goal line, but dropped the ball making the pass incomplete. Again in the second quarter the locals had a chance to score. After making 8 yards on three downs, which carried them to Tech's four yard line, they were able to make but a yard on the fourth try and Tech's heavy line held the ball on Tech's three yard line.

Tech could not gain consistently against the locals but by a combination of forward passes and line smashes were able to cross the local goal once in each half. Monessen's work on the defense was spectacular. Time after time they threw the Tech backs for losses when they attempted to go around the ends while at once were they able to get past the scrimmage line. While the Monessen line played an exceptionally strong game yet they were unable at times to hold Tech's 185 pound full back. However, it was not straight football that enabled Tech to make her touchdowns, but rather by forward passing for it was by the aerial route that Tech gained most of her ground.

On the offense the locals were unable to gain consistently but at times went for gains that threw a score into the Tech team. Near the end of the game Schmidt carrying the ball around right end on a shift play circled the Tech ends and backs for thirty yards. On this play Monessen's interference was almost perfect, every man being taken out except the Tech quarter back. Schmidt got away with another run for sixty five yards in the second half when he picked up a fumble by a Tech back, who had intercepted a pass and dropped the ball when tackled. Schmidt carried the ball to Tech's 7 yard line before being tackled, but for some reason the ball was brought back and given to Tech at the point of the fumble. This was Monessen's last chance to score.

The features of the game were the defensive work of Capt. Hannigan, Schmidt's thirty yard run and the brilliant work of Monessen's ends. The lines also played a strong game, Monessen, Dudas, Hyford and Graff often towering the heavy Tech backs on the scrimmage line. For Tech the fall back and quarter back starred while the forward passing of the visitors was sensational.

Local Aeroplane Has Arrived

Aviator Dazil Rose with his Lincoln tourabout arrived in town shortly after one o'clock this afternoon having flown from New Philadelphia, O., and after circling the town at a low altitude the machine landed in a field back of town. The plane, the best ever brought to the valley, is the property of local people and will make exhibition and passenger flights. Aviator Rose brought the machine from Lincoln, Neb., making a record flight despite the heavy fogs that compelled him to await better weather conditions after landing in Chicago. The Ma-

AMERICAN WOMEN DOING FULL SHARE FOR THE COUNTRY

DISCUSSES HIGH LIVING COSTS

Declares in an Interview That Present High Prices Can Be Reduced by Votes.

By Estelline Bennett.

Mrs. Coolidge sat in a day coach on a slow local train between Boston and Northampton and talked about her husband, her children, the high cost of living and the domestic problem. The conductor and the brakeman stopped as they went through the car to talk to her. She had made friends with them in her frequent journeys back and forth to keep in touch with her children in school in Northampton and her husband at his duties in the state capitol. She knitted diligently as she talked. During those trips she knits all the winter stockings and sweaters for her two boys—John, aged fourteen, and Calvin, twelve.

"Too many people are afraid of work," she thinks is the fundamental reason for the high cost of living and the much discussed domestic problem.

"I think the only thing the women of the country can do now," she said, with the quiet conviction of one who has thought it all out, "is to vote for the men whom they think will make the right laws and see that they are enforced. They have done all they can in the home. I think the reason there is so much sugar on hand now is because people are doing without it in their homes."

Women Have Done Their Share.

"American women have done, and still are doing, their full share. They have sacrificed and saved and substituted and made over. But that isn't enough. They'll have to vote the high cost of living down.

"Here in New England, where it is a little hard for us to give up pie," she laughed at the tradition that has become a joke, "we have learned to use all kinds of cheaper substitutes for butter and lard, and in my own household we have experimented with different fruit combinations to find something we like and that will take the least sugar. Apples must be tart to make good pies, but we have found that blueberries take less sugar and the combination of apples and blueberries, half and half, is delicious, requires less sweetening than apples and has more character than the blueberries alone."

Knows No Domestic Problems.

The domestic problem, which is closing homes all over the country and increasing the hotel population, is something of which Mrs. Coolidge thinks she has no personal, practical knowledge. She never keeps but one maid, and she never has been without one in the fifteen years of her married life she has had only two. The first one she inherited with the furnished house into which she and Mr. Coolidge moved when they were married and took with her when she moved. The second came when the first left to go and live with her sister.

There must be a reason for their staying, it was suggested to Mrs. Coolidge, and she thought possibly there were several. She thought the type of maid had something to do with it. Her's both have been American women old enough to have a sense of responsibility to their work and intelligent enough to respond to reasonable courteous treatment.

"A good many women who keep only one maid have trouble in their households because both mistress and maid, but chiefly the mistress, are afraid of work. A woman expects one maid to do the cooking and scrubbing and everything else and still be dressed up in black dress with white cap and apron, ready to answer the doorbell any minute. It isn't humanly possible. I always answer my doorbell myself. I do it for two reasons. In the first place, there is no one else, and, in the second, I like to greet my friends at the door myself."

Have Home Orchestra.

Mrs. Coolidge is of medium height, with brown hair, hazel eyes that hold a good deal of merriment and a very quick sense of humor. At home she and her children have a little orchestra. Mrs. Coolidge plays the piano, John the violin, and Calvin, after considerable discussion, in which he favored a bass drum, compromised on a banjo-mandolin. They play hymns and war songs usually the hymns they learn in the Congregational church and Sunday School of Northampton. They avoid difficult and unfamiliar music because the object of the orchestra is entirely recreational and not educational. That is a part of Mrs. Coolidge's educational policy that children should work when they work and play when they play and keep the two separate. That was why she sent her boys to the public schools of Northampton when they were five years old.

Every morning when she is in Northampton Mrs. Coolidge takes her basket and goes to market. If the neighbor next door is going Mrs. Coolidge goes with her in the car. Otherwise she walks. She has no domestic policy. She buys, she says, what the family need and can afford."

103 YEARS YOUNG; HE'S FOR HARDING

"If I should live to be another 100 years old I certainly would never vote for a member of the Democratic party for President or any other national office."

So declares "Grandpa" Albert Vogel, 103 years young, of Jeannette, Pa., who cast his first vote in a presidential election for Polk, voted for Abraham Lincoln and has voted the Republican ticket ever since. Next month he will vote for Harding and Coolidge.

"Tell the country I am for Harding and Coolidge and America first," says Mr. Vogel. "I want no Wilson League of Nations. President Wilson's autocracy and the wastefulness of those he gathered about him as his official family was to be expected. It has been a Democratic trait for years."

"Grandpa" Vogel takes a daily constitutional over streets near his home in Jeannette. Occasionally he preaches a sermon from one of the Western Pennsylvania churches with old time vigor. He started life as an assistant lamplighter in the Capitol grounds at Washington when he was fifteen years old. He often ran errands for members of Congress and can vividly recall the eloquence of Henry Clay and Daniel Webster and other famous statesmen of that period. He saw Andrew Jackson inaugurated in 1832. Later he became a Methodist minister.

Facts Presented.

"In anticipation of the development of a rioting condition at Canton, O., the Governor of Ohio has deemed it necessary to assemble a sufficient number of state troops at Akron, O., to be held in readiness to render aid to the civil authorities at Canton, O., and has so directed the Adjutant General of Ohio, who, pursuant to such order, directs Colonel Benson W. Hough to proceed without delay to Akron, O., to take command of all state troops upon arrival at Akron, O., and to hold them in readiness for duty, awaiting further orders."

The order is signed by the Adjutant General and counter-signed in these words, "By command of Governor Cox."

Did Governor Cox tell the truth to the workingmen?

Supplementing this documentary proof, Mr. Clark produced photographic copies of headlines from Canton, O., newspapers of concurrent date, which read: "State troops mobilizing for duty here. All available companies are ordered out." And, "Governor orders troops for duty here. Ohio soldiers reporting to armories following trouble."

Truth Should Be Known.

The surprising thing about it all is that Governor Cox in his Wheeling speech should have made so flat an assertion when all of the facts with regard to his mobilization of the guard were still fresh in the public mind, at least in Ohio. Of course it is not to be expected that workingmen elsewhere in the United States would be familiar with the circumstances, and it was for that reason that State Chairman Clark in his speech stressed the necessity for the people all over the country to be informed that Governor Cox's assertion that he "never pressed a soldier into an industrial controversy" was absolutely at variance with the truth.

Publication of these official facts has utterly confounded the advocates of Governor Cox's election, who have been making a special plea to the workingmen on the basis of his West Virginia speech. The revelations as to Mr. Cox's mobilization of the troops are being compared with the sworn statements of liquor league contributions to his gubernatorial campaign fund in refutation of his statement that "the wets have never contributed one dollar to any of my campaigns." In both cases the point is made that the issue is not as to the merit of his mobilization of the troops, on the one hand, or as to the status of the wet and dry question, on the other hand, but that the real issue is as to the degree of candor and accuracy absolutely necessary in one who seeks to be president of the United States.

Cox Wiggles and Wobbles.

BY SCOTT C. BONE.

Candidate Cox, recklessly charging that the Republican party had set out to corrupt the electorate by raising a fund of $15,000,000 with which to "buy the presidency," has been utterly confuted by the facts.

Instead, it has been completely established that the goal fixed by Chairman Hays was only one-fifth that amount, or $3,000,000, with contributions rigidly limited to $1,000, and that never before has a campaign fund been so free from the taint of corporate, sinister or sordid influences.

That an overtaxed, overburdened and weary country, paying the cost of incompetence, incapacity and extravagance in governmental affairs and maladministration at Washington, would welcome relief at any price legitimately expended may be taken for granted.

But only in the wild dreams of Candidate Cox—who stands committed to Wilsonism and the wastefulness of Wilsonism, with everything that Wilsonism typifies and implies—has any such expenditure as Candidate Cox charged ever been remotely conceived or for a moment contemplated.

Even his foremost newspaper champions—organs of the international banking crowd which favor his candidacy because, with equal rashness, he promises that if elected he will go into the Wilson League of Nations—editorially admit that his slush fund charges have proven groundless.

Candidate Cox's credibility as a witness has similarly been damaged by the wet and dry issue confronting him.

To the indisputable proof that the New Jersey Liquor Dealers' Association is appealing for funds to elect him as a "pronounced wet" he replies that the liquor interests of Ohio never contributed to any of his campaigns.

Yet a sworn statement, signed by the secretary of the Ohio Liquor Dealers' Association and on file in the secretary of state's office, shows that that organization contributed a substantial sum out of its treasury to the Cox campaign of 1918.

And in the face of it all, having withstood for months, in silence, William Jennings Bryan's denunciation of him as a "wet" and unfit to run for president, Candidate Cox, with characteristic audacity, now assures a North Dakota crowd that "I have always voted dry!"

Imagine Boss Murphy, Boss Taggart, Boss Brennan and that Youngstown Apostle of Light and Uplift, Ed Moore, consenting the nomination at San Francisco of a candidate who had "always voted dry!" Imagine it, if you can!

Shade of John Barleycorn! What a spectacle is presented in American politics!

REPUBLICAN IN POLITICS

FREEDOM OF CONTRACT

The old theory of freedom of contract is found to be practically false, writes Louis Bartlett in the September Atlantic Monthly. He explains:

"A man working for a mining company, the sole employer in a given locality, is theoretically free to accept employment on the terms offered; but practically there is no such freedom. Starvation is the alternative to accepting a job on the company's terms."

This, too, is true in other fields of human endeavor, in the city, on the farm, as well as in the mining camp.

What is being done about it?

"The law," observes Bartlett, "is stepping in and taking away the so-called freedom to contract, by such laws as minimum wage laws; by abolition of the company store; by acts requiring payment in money at stated intervals, exempting certain property from execution, and so forth."

But, as Barlett points out, "we have not gone far along this road." The halting progress, as you may say, has been due, in no small measurue, to a real or pretended fear of "paternalism," which has, however, done much toward saving life and making life happier for millions of workers, especially women and children.

THE CLUB

Last spring the price-taxed consumer wearied under the load he was carrying and quit buying. He reduced extravagant buying and bargained more carefully for what he needed at the moment and no more.

The result was soon apparent. Prices began toppling. Wholesale figures shrank and retail quotations now are following the same downward path. This was most noticeable in foodstuffs. The wholesale market for foods saw repeated and deep drops in prices. But the restaurant men, who buy in the wholesale market, didn't pass the lower price along to their customers. The same old price schedule prevails in most eating places. Probably what the profiteering restaurant man needs now is a dose of that same buying constraint. Of course, one cannot spring a starvation strike merely to reduce restaurant prices; hunger strikes are necessary. One may carry his lunch. Grandfather used to do it. Save money that way and, if nothing else can, lunch-toting will bring the restaurant profiteers to their senses!

RAILS TANGLED

The position Iowa takes is that while the interstate commerce commission may regulate traffic between states, it has nothing to say about what rates shall be charged within the state. Seven other states already have assumed that attitude. All of which places the railway situation in a tangle, which federal courts must smooth out. Should the courts uphold the states, railroads will come near the large increases they expected, and which, it seems, they need to enable the country's transportation system to keep step with the nation's production.

The community says "well done" to a limited number of people who show public spirit, and it makes the same remark to a greater number who have bought Gr: Rob Quin stocks.

If ball players are going to call out games, they at least ought to hang out a red flag and have a public auction, and advertise it with three insertions in all the newspapers.

All the boys are learning how to make and repair pleasure cars, but it is not considered that the world is going to have any further need for carpenters and blacksmiths.

Prohibition is a very ticklish issue this fall, and many candidates are starting off on their stumping tours equipped for both wet and dry weather.

You can't shut up a socialist, but frequently he will keep still of his own accord because it is so much work to talk.

SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work—I Recommend It To All My Friends.

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had bad headaches, and for six months I could not work. I was treated by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. SUSIE SACATANSKY, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

Many Petitions Before Board

(By United Press)

Harrisburg, Oct. 11—Fourteen petitions for redress from existing industrial laws will be heard by the Industrial Board of the department of labor and industry when it meets here tomorrow, it was learned from the program of business announced today.

The meeting tomorrow will be the first held this fall. Owing to the absence of Commissioner Connelley, chairman of the board, during September, the regular monthly meeting was postponed one month.

Several matters of especial importance will be brought to the attention of the commissioner at this session, among them the question of membership in the American Society of Engineers.

Reports of the committees on Women and Children in industry, industrial relations and safety standards will be read, following which petitions and recommendations will be heard.

Three codes covering quarrying and galvanizing industries and tunnels other than coal mines will be brought to the attention of the board. At present there are no codes in this state embracing these industries.

A memorial resolution to the late William Lauder, a former member of the board, who died Sept. 17, will be delivered.

A petition which is expected to call forth considerable debate is that of the Wilkesbarre Telephone Exchange of the Pennsylvania railroad, where women are employed after 10 p. m. Under the present law, women are not permitted to work more than eight hours. The petitioners claim it is necessary to employ operators after that time and seek permission to engage them for eight hours working two shifts.

The Strike Question

(By United Press)

Harrisburg, Oct. 11—Secretary of Labor Wilson defines a strike as an act of quitting work in order to obtain a change in conditions of employment.

In a letter to the secretary of the state industrial board made public today, Secretary Wilson draws the distinction between a "strike" in the full meaning of the term and a "vacation," when there is no collective action.

The department of labor and industry of Pennsylvania is seeking an adequate definition of the word "strike" in order to interpret when the department may be allowed to interfere or go a head with any program in dealing with industrial disputes.

"The more difficult problem is to determine when a strike has ceased to exist, when there is no collective action in declaring it off," Secretary Wilson explained.

"In such circumstances we have not found it possible to follow any general rule of definition and have been compelled to deal with each individual case in accordance with the circumstances surrounding it," he added.

"The Labor Department has found very little difficulty in defining the term 'strike' at the inception of such a movement," Wilson said.

The quest for a definition has brought many varieties of answers from almost every state in the union, the board's secretary stated. These letters will be read in the report at the meeting of the industrial board tomorrow. In North Dakota, it was learned, there has never been a strike.

A committee will be appointed following the meeting to investigate the subject and hold public hearings at a near date when it will be decided how long a strike may go before it becomes a "vacation." Representatives of the chambers of commerce, trades council and labor unions are expected to attend the hearings. The subject will be approached from all angles before a decision is made that will be binding in future, it was stated.

One application of the ruling will apply to the bureau of employment which is prohibited, under a state law, from furnishing employes to any plant where a strike is in progress.

Ready to Go to Work After Rescue

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Oct. 11—Two miners were ready to go back to work today, following their rescue yesterday when they were taken out of the Plymouth Red Ash Coal Co. mine after being entombed for 42 hours. The rescued men are: William Young, 35 years married, and Joseph Hillard, father of seven children. They escaped without a scratch. A mine mule which was entombed with them was not taken out of the mine until today.

Pillar robbing caused the roof to crop. Tons of rock poured in on to the only passageway leading to the mine shaft. Realizing that there was no escape for them until their predicament was discovered and rescuers placed at work the men, according to their own story told after their release, took their imprisonment coolly. They first feared that only because of the danger that mules would go on a rampage and attempt to devour them.

Kidnapper Confesses

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 11—Blakely Coughlin, the missing Norristown baby was smothered to death and the body buried near Egg Harbor, N. J., by August Pasquale, the crank, who confessed yesterday to kidnapping the child, according to Major Lynn Adams. Pasquale revealed the complete details of the kidnapping, stating that he entered the house and placed the child under his coat and when he was well on his way opened his coat and found the child dead. He then buried the body.

Palestine's Forests.

"What do you consider Palestine's greatest needs?" Miss Nathan, a Red Cross worker, was asked by a prominent Zionist, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington, D. C. Both were returned from the Holy Land, where their duties had taken them.

"Forests," was Miss Nathan's instant reply.

"What, before the much-needed industries are started in?" exclaimed the Zionist incredulously. "Don't you think industrial [illegible] should come before reforestation?"

Elders and Deacons Were Ordained

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 10.—Bishop Charles J. McConnell of Pittsburgh ordained the first class of candidates for elders and deacons orders in the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church here this afternoon. John O. Martin, Charleroi; Ross Hunt, Pittsburgh; Lawrence A. Stahl, Smith's Ferry and Hugh C. Morgan of the Central Pennsylvania Conference were ordained deacons of the second order of the conference relation and W. Rufus Hofelt, Artie R. Groves and Charles R. Wolfe, Pittsburgh and Sankey L. Sheets, Windber, were elected to eldership, the highest order of the church, carrying with it the right to administer the sacraments and ordinances. Bishop McConnell preached his first conference sermon at the morning service and John F. Kramer, prohibition commissioner, and Dr. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, were the speakers at the temperance rally this evening.

The outing to Loretto, the summer home of Charles M. Schwab, nearly resulted in a tragedy when a car containing the Rev. Dr. J. B. Taylor of Belle Vernon, the Rev. Dr. L. R. Jones of Pitcairn, the Rev. T. J. Hicks of Aspinwall and the Rev. J. J. Davis of Scenery Hill, Washington county, ran into a ditch. None of the party was injured, although all were thrown from the machine. All continued the pilgrimage to Loretto, where Mr. Schwab delivered a front porch speech.

Local Girl Takes Part in Recital

Miss Genevieve Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Porter of Gibsonton, had the honor of playing at the first Students' Recital of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, where she is studying this year. Miss Porter's number was Frisson de Feuilles by Sauer, and she played it in a most charming manner.

The Weekly Students' Recital is an institution in Oberlin Conservatory life that is of the greatest benefit both to the performers on the program and to the students in general. The students who take part in these programs are those whom the teachers decide have reached a degree of proficiency to enable them to play or sing in a creditable manner. It not only gives them valuable training in appearing well on the concert platform, but affords them an opportunity to play before a very unusual audience—one composed of their fellow students who are working along the same lines as the performers themselves and of the Oberlin Conservatory faculty, who as musicians are competent to judge in a just manner of the worth of their performance. To the student body in general the good derived from listening to these recitals is incalculable. The attendance is compulsory so that in the course of the student's life in the Conservatory he hears a vast amount of music of every kind, rendered for the most part in a finished and artistic manner. He in this way becomes familiar with a far wider range of compositions and becomes unconsciously better able to judge performances of music that he could possibly do otherwise.

Miss Porter is studying piano, voice, harmony and ear training. She was graduated from Monessen High school, class of 1918, receiving sufficient credit to enable her to enter the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, which demands the same entrance requirement as the College of Arts and Sciences.

Valley Towns Experiencing Epidemics

Charleroi is experiencing an epidemic of measles similar to that which visited Donora in the spring of this year. Speaking of the matter the Mail Saturday stated:

"Health Officer Derby reports fifty cases of measles in town, most of which are in the vicinity of the Crest avenue school. Forty two houses are under quarantine, fourteen of which were placed yesterday. This morning the health officer directed that all of the children who attend from the homes on the Plate Glass premises be dismissed from school, owing to the prevalence of an watery sore eyes alleged to be among them. These children, by his direction, are also to be excluded from moving picture shows and from entertainments until the ban is lifted."

Health conditions in this city are in direct contrast to surrounding communities, for, while Charleroi has a number of cases and Donora is suffering from a serious epidemic, from which this city has had but four cases of measles reported this month.

Fixing the Distribution.

It was the custom in old Virginia for children on gala occasions to send trays of good things to each other. On one occasion my brother, Wat Tyler, the youngest of several children of the family, was sitting around trying when the servant brought in a tray loaded with cake and other delicacies. He had heard the expression "Children should be seen not heard," so in a droll way he said to his mother, looking at the children who were chattering merrily, "The first takes the longest shall have the longest, and he that takes the longest shall have the longest."—Exchange.

Now Supporting Cox.

He is today editor in chief of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association and is putting out daily pink propaganda sheets of a lurid and sensational character in support of the candidacy of Governor Cox.

Samples of these sheets were submitted to the committee, and Senator Reed, Democrat, frankly denounced the propaganda as "rot" and manifested extreme impatience and disgust with the young man's loose talk about a "Senate oligarchy" and criticism of the Supreme Court.

Young Scripps, although he did not fight for his country in 1917-18, insisted that he was doing it all through love of country and in the "public interest," without any pay from the Democratic committee or thought of obligation for keeping him out of war.

The draft-dodging aspects of the case, as brought out at Washington, are not unlike those of young Bergdoll of Philadelphia, which resulted in a Federal prosecution for conspiracy to evade the draft.

Fifth Cousin Roosevelt devoted his speech at Providence, R. I., to a defense of eight years of Democratic administration. Six weeks is a very short time for doing much along that line.

"PARTY FACES DISASTER"—GORE

Senator Thomas Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, who was defeated for renomination through the influence of the White House because of his opposition to the League of Nations, plainly indicates that he proposes to continue his fight upon the league. The blind senator says:

"The paramount issue is to avert disaster; nobody favors the league that understands it.

"The women of Maine have read it. It is no wonder about the women. It is no marvel about the mothers. They are not willing to mortgage the pound of flesh nearest their hearts.

"They are not willing to sign this bloody bond which is a first lien upon the life of every boy beneath the stars and stripes.

"He was blind indeed who had not already seen the black shadow of the Maine elections visioned upon the horizon."

BACK PORCH CAMPAIGN TO BE BEGUN SOON BY WILSON

Washington. — Gradually being pushed to the rear by the progress of the canvass it is now announced that President Wilson is to wage a "Back Porch" campaign. The local evening papers announce this fact and say that the plan is being discussed by the Administration leaders. It may even come within a week, some of these leaders believe. Edmund H Moore, who managed Governor Cox's pre-convention campaign, is given credit for this rear attack on the Harding method of using the front porch.

EDITORS PAY VISIT TO MARION STAR AND FIND A REAL PAPER.

"If President Harding is as big a success as Editor Harding he will go down in history in the Hall of Fame," writes J. Gabbert of Riverside, Cal., in an article just published on his return from Marion, where he visited Harding's paper.

"We found just the sort of a paper a future President might be expected to edit," says Mr. Gabbert, "and the visit, to us came nearer to being an editorial conference than a political crusade.

"We found men working for Editor Harding who had been with him for periods varying from 20 to 38 years. We found that Editor Harding follows closely every detail incident to the publication of his paper. He knows what pay the helpers on the floor get, just as he knows the amount he pays his manager. He can handle type like the rest of us, and it would keep my foreman busy to beat him on setting upon a stick of 8-point type. He knows how to make up a paper like a veteran and he is just as much at home in the business office looking over the advertising accounts."

First
Miss Shepherd sang, "In the Gloaming." The New Edison stood on the stage by her side.
Then

Miss Betsy Lane Shepherd, famous concert soprano, has made this test 185 times. 185 public audiences, in 185 cities, have heard her compare her voice with its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one, out of a total of more than 100,000 listeners, has been able to tell when Miss Shepherd was singing, and when the New Edison—except by watching her lips.

4,000 similar tests of direct comparison, made by over fifty other celebrated vocalists and instrumentalists, have given this same result.

The New Edison is perfect realism! achieved!

What kind of music "gets" you?

Tell us—and we'll show you how all its emotional power is RE-CREATED by the New Edison

Is it the soulful violin?—a mellow contralto?—the scintillating flute?—a sweet, soothing tenor?—that draws the quickest emotional response from you.

Let us play your favorite voice or instrument in a new kind of Realism Test. See whether you are touched by the RE-CREATED music in the same way that you are touched by the living music.

We want to show you that the New Edison RE-CREATES all the vital power in all music.

Remember what to ask for—"personal favorites" Realism Test!

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Perfect realism is your one vehicle to the inner joys of music which you crave.

Mr. Edison spent three million dollars in the research work which gave the New Edison perfect realism. He did this in order that the phonograph might transcend its former limitations and (here we quote Mr. Edison's own words), "bring into every American home, music so realistic and so perfect in its rendition as to be an unending source of benefit and pleasure."

The instruments which proved this perfect realism in Miss Shepherd's 185 tests were all exact duplicates of the original Official Laboratory Model on which Mr. Edison spent his three million dollars. You can also have an exact duplicate of this three million dollar original. We have it in our store, and guarantee it to be capable of sustaining the same test of direct comparison.

Important Practical Detail

Our Budget Plan brings your New Edison for immediate enjoyment, without asking for immediate payment. Ask about it when you come in to hear the "Personal Favorites" Realism Test.

KEPT OUT OF WAR, NOW SERVES COX

Publisher's Son Escaped Military Service Through Democratic Nominee's Influence.

Young, able-bodied, rich, a strapping big fellow, who possessed all the physical equipment of an American soldier, save, evidently, heart, Robert P. Scripps was kept out of the war through Administration influences.

He was exempted.

The local draft board of Butler County, O., rejected his plea and held that there was no valid claim for his exemption and that he should surely don a uniform and shoulder arms, but Secretary of War Baker's law partner, Tom Sidlo, was employed to save the youthful slacker. Governor Cox took a hand, in the case, and finally, by White House decree, he went scot free.

His multi-millionaire father, E. W. Scripps, controlling owner of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association, a powerful combination, threatened to overthrow the Administration rather than permit either of his sons to answer the call of Uncle Sam.

Administration Exempts Slacker.

Having helped to re-elect Woodrow Wilson President on the issue, "He kept us out of war," the elder Scripps demanded that his sons be kept out of war. And the Administration kept them out.

Young Robert Scripps, who had never done any real newspaper work, was given the title of Assistant to the Publisher of the Scripps League of Newspapers to create an excuse for his exemption. Finally he was ordered home from Camp Sherman by Governor Cox, after he had been in uniform for ten days.

All these facts and more of an equally astounding and discreditable character were brought out by the Kenyon Senatorial Committee, which subpoenaed young Scripps to Washington to explain his activities in the present campaign.

The Missing Witness

By VICTOR RADCLIFFE

A sudden gust of wind nearly swept Victor Lloyd off his feet. With a shiver and a whang the umbrella he carried turned inside out and he cast it away, a wreck. The first drops of rain struck his face. He started to run, making for the only house in view just beyond a bridge spanning a narrow stream. Midway across the structure a second vagary of the fierce breeze raised his hat from his head, whirled it aloft and then to the surface of the river and in dismay, unable to recover it, Lloyd saw it submerged.

The suit he wore was a light one, his shoes were low cut, a drenching boded wretchedness and disaster. He had wandered beyond the city limits. The nearest refuge was the house he had noticed. Bareheaded he dashed through its gateway, halted under a tree for a moment or two, and then as the rain came down in real earnest, slantingly assailing him on all sides, Lloyd made for a covered porch. Even there, however, the downpour penetrated.

"Perhaps you had better come inside,' spoke a silvery voice, and the screen door was pushed half open and a sunny face invited with a friendly smile. Lloyd's hand went mechanically to his head to lift the hat that was not there. The girl could not repress a light laugh. Lloyd joined in it, entered a hallway, followed his guide into a neat little parlor and ruefully remarked:

"I am bringing in some wet," and he hesitated as to taking a chair.

"Do not mind that," replied the young lady. "If you would help me close the windows. The rain is beating in on all sides," and with alacrity Lloyd sprang to the task invited.

He was not sorry now that he had lost his hat, for in a way he had lost his heart to the vision of loveliness before him. She was the most winsome creature he had ever met, and treated him as though mindful her loneliness she was glad to have a visitor to alleviate the tedium.

Their conversation was only general, but from the same, Lloyd learned that her father was a merchant in the wholesale quarter of the city, and he imparted the information that he was a broker in the financial district.

"I have intruded too long already," he observed after a delightful half hour. The storm has passed and the sun is coming out."

"You have been very welcome," spoke Inez Bolton. "But you cannot go back to the city hatless. I will see if I cannot find something that will answer in the way of headgear until you reach home."

The young lady left the room and returned with a hat evidently belonging to her father, but when Lloyd tried it on he found it too large. His fair companion brushed it neatly, went to a desk and selected what seemed to be several circulars from a drawer, folded them and placed them in the lining, and Lloyd declared that the fit was perfect.

"I will have the hat returned with many thanks," he told Miss Bolton. "I hope we shall meet again."

"I hope so too," she replied readily, and Lloyd went home with pleasant thoughts and anticipations. He got the hat ready to return by a messenger. Removing the folded papers and placing the hat in a box, he chanced to notice that they were printed circulars all alike.

"Why, this is queer!" exclaimed Lloyd.

What he held in his hand was evidently a circular sent to lawyers in various cities containing a description of one Mark Steele, and signed by Robert Bolton. It stated that Steele was a missing witness in a most important law case and offered a reward for his recovery.

"And I know the man—saw him only last year when I was camping out in Idaho. Name and description exactly tally. Why here is certainly an excuse to hasten back where I came from and learn if my knowledge will be of any benefit to the father of that delightful girl Miss Bolton."

It was a gladsome return journey that Victor Lloyd made because he hoped that its results would bring him nearer to the fair young girl who had so attracted him.

He wore his own hat this time, carrying that of Mr. Bolton neatly done up. His daughter was seated on the porch this time. She left the side of a dignified man, evidently her father, to greet Lloyd, noticing the parcel in his hand.

"Oh! you should not have hurried to bring the hat back," she said. "Father, this was our visitor of the afternoon I told you about."

Mr. Bolton bowed courteously, but with no cordiality as though always on guard as to his daughter's acquaintances, but he aroused into excited activity as Lloyd did.

"I made a discovery when I got home—the circulars in the lining. I was somewhat surprised, for I know Mark Steele."

"And where he is?" cried Mr. Bolton eagerly.

"Yes. I hope my knowledge may be of value to you."

"Of value," repeated Mr. Bolton in an intense tone. "Why, upon his testimony depends half of my real estate."

Victor Lloyd never asked for the reward offered for the discovery of the missing witness—he married Miss Inez, and won her.

"Henrys" and "Harrys."

While I know one Harry who was so christened with disregard for the more dignified Henry and there may be other instances of the kind, there seems to be little doubt that the latter is the parent of the former name. England has always called its King Henrys "Harry." During the reign of Henry VI, who succeeded to the throne in 1422, there was a piece of money coined called the Harry noble, and in the time of Henry VIII there was a tiny coin named the Harry groat. "In Jerusalem shall Harry die," said Henry IV.—Chicago Daily News.

These are exclusive and official pictures of the greatest disaster to visit the metropolis in years The damaged buildings and the dead and wounded are shown lying about the streets, the picture being taken just a few minutes after the disaster. In addition to this William Russell is at the Olympic in "The Man Who Dared" A really wonderful picture

Tomorrow the Olympic has another thrilling picture of Lieut. Locklear, the daredevil aviator who met an untimely death a short time ago while attempting one of his daring stunts. This is one of Lockyear's last pictures and he takes the leading part in "The Skywayman." You have heard of this great aviator, now see him in action tomorrow at the Olympic. 1t
